KEY INDICATOR- 2.3 Teaching - Learning Process

2.3.1 Student centric methods, such as experiential learning, participative learning peer learning, team teaching, case law method and problem solving methodologies are used for enhancing learning experiences

With the advent of new learning methods in education, the approach in teaching has evolved. Student centric method has gained prominence and has emerged to be a high outcome generating method in the academic development of learners. The College has focused on student centric methods which incorporates experimental learning, Participative learning, peer learning, case law method and problem solving methodologies. Student Centered Learning through these innovative methods, emphasizes impact on fostering critical thinking, collaboration, and a deeper understanding of subject matter.

Experimental Learning plays a key role in the teaching learning process as it bridges the gap between theory and practical learning, helping students understand the nuances of the legal field and allows them to prepare for their journey post course completion.

In an effort to provide students with the best possible practical experience the institution organizes Court Visits, Supreme Court Visit, Jail Visit, Police station visit and learn practical aspects and day to day workings of these places. Post these visits students are asked to write reports on respective visits and share their learning. Students are also encouraged to participate in activities pertaining to socio legal issues where they perform street plays and carry out awareness programmes and spread legal knowledge in society.

The College's teaching learning process also includes participative learning where students are encouraged to participate in inter collegiate events, moot courts, Debate Competitions, article writing activities. The students are awarded certificates for these activities and their efforts are acknowledged. Advanced learners are encouraged to participate in competitions organized by other Colleges and University of Mumbai.

The College organizes guest lectures, paralegal events and mentoring sessions which encourages learners for participation in events. Other than organizing events, participative learning is encouraged daily in classrooms by faculties where students are given topics for debate, essay and case studies as part of daily learning.

Post completion of course syllabus every subject faculty schedules a dedicated lecture for question paper solving where students are given guidelines on writing answers in examination. The critical thinking questions referred to as 'situational problems' by University of Mumbai are discussed in the classroom which increases learners' thinking ability and prepares them well for analytical reasoning in their respective subjects.

The institution ensures a timely course completion of syllabus and preparatory leave is given to students for reflective learning. Faculties of the College are available for doubt clearing of students on official groups and in college.

EXPERIMENTAL LEARNING

A. HON'BLE SUPREME COURT VISIT

The Final Year students (LLB & BLS Course) visited the Supreme Court premises on (17th March 2023) an argument session at different courtrooms was held, it was extremely insightful for the students to experience speaking. It was a great honor to meet the Hon'ble Justice Abhay Oka & Senior Adv. Dushyant Dave in the court premises.

The students gained knowledge of original, appellate and advisory jurisdictions, how these protect the fundamental rights of citizens and act as the court that settles disputes between various levels of government in the country. It was an overwhelmingly educational experience for the students.

G. WEEKLY MOOT COURT SESSION ORGANISED BY COLLEGE IN MOOT COURT ROOM

Mooting is an experience that develops a law student into a lawyer. The law is not only about theory, but much more than that. Oriental College of Law's Moot Court Association conducts weekly sessions every Saturday for all our students. We provide a platform for students to hone their skills before appearing in front of a real Court.

~~Teachers~~ Teachers use ICT enabled tools for effective teaching-learning process.

The College uses ICT enabled tools in its teaching learning process catering to students and faculties requirements. Acknowledging the effectiveness of audio visual technique in teaching learning, the College promotes blended learning through various electronic resources. The College has a dedicated classroom which offers students myriad benefits for an enhanced learning experience.

Faculties in the College use a modern approach towards teaching by introducing new learning applications relevant to the legal field. The College promotes E-learning by teaching through Power Point presentations, providing subject notes in digital format, seeking assignment submissions in electronic format along with hard copies.

The College provides learning links to students with respect to various subjects. The institution has made a deliberate effort to promote digital literacy by sharing updates of courtroom activities, legal news that can be accessed via platforms like Live Law and Bar and Bench. Students are directed towards E learning methods such as accessing online Bare Acts through mediums such as India code

The blended mode of learning practiced by the College has ensured sharing of reading material in student groups making learning effective and accessible. Beyond theoretical learning students are introduced to E-Courts, online RTI applications, online cyber complaints and various other activities.

With limited resources the College has maximized digital literacy and aims to do the same in upcoming academic years. The College uses online resources in feeding of marks of students, practice of providing important notification such as exam notices, revaluation forms.
